1924 UPHEAVAL

Political Situation Local and Spotty, Says Observer
After Long Trip.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily
Gazette.

This is the first of a series of four dispatches analyzing the general political situation throughout the United States, and is based on observation made by Mr. Lawrence during a 10,000-mile journey from coast to coast just completed, during which 30 different cities were made in a total of 21 states, and most extensive canvass made by any newspaper correspondent this fall.

Washington—Congress will remain republican. The momentum which the republican party achieved in 1920 will carry it successfully through the coming elections.

The disavowal of the Harding administration and congress is partly offset by the fact that the democratic party had offered no constructive alternative.

There are in fact no issues to awaken the voter in California to the same sense of interest as the voter in Massachusetts.

The entire political situation is local and spotty. State issues will determine the result of congressional elections in so many states that mathematical tables on the number of republicans or democrats to be elected to either the senate or the house of representatives are of no value or significance.

See Working Majority. Enough of the states and districts will support the republican ticket, however, to insure a working majority in both houses.

This does not mean that signs of political upheaval in 1924 are not visible. Quite the opposite is true. The most notable change in the American electorate today is its dislike of both republican and democratic parties.

The professional politician, more so than ever, is a character of the American history—the period of reconstruction following the earthquake of war.

Political, triviality, demagoguery, inferior types of candidates, religious bigotry, divisive radicalism, fanatical nationalism—all these characteristics are to be found in dozens of state elections where the label democrat or republican might mean one thing in one state and the opposite in another.

But the "outs," where it is merely a craving for public office or it might better be "conservative" and "radical" where the business men and others of a present turn of mind are voting for a democratic or republican conservative as the case may be, and where the extremists in labor in social reform or in agricultural radicalism have found a common ground irrespective of their previous political affiliations.

There is as yet no enthusiasm for a third party. Discussion here and there is academic. Who is hoped for the regeneration of one or the other parties. No small part in the upset of political lines has been the prohibition issue. In many states there is resentment of the failure of the authorities to enforce the law and in those same states there is bitter feeling that the law enforcement agencies are going too far and that prohibition is an invasion of personal liberty. Party lines have suffered as a consequence.

Broadly speaking, the sentiment for a repeal of the Eighteenth amendment has crystallized sufficiently to determine exactly what proportion of the whole it occupies. This much is true—the people who favor prohibition are not as vocal as those who oppose it.

SCHOOL DEBT RUNS CITY OVER LIMIT

Either Close Schools Two Months or Violate Law, Is Problem.

Facing the proposition of either running the city's indebtedness beyond the statutory limit or shutting down the schools until January 1 for lack of funds, the board of education has chosen the former course and is now paying teachers' salaries and other bills with certificates of indebtedness.

Through an arrangement with the banks, these certificates are honored the same as they were last year, even though the debt limit has been about reached.

While the action is admittedly illegal it is generally believed the necessity of the move will be recognized and that there will be no trouble with the collection of taxes in January, the accumulated school debt can be paid off and the situation will once more be normal. No interference from the state is anticipated.

At the first of November, the board of education finds itself with only $1,682 in cash on hand and running expenses for two months to be paid. According to the school board report, the school board paid out $1,223.66 in cash, the balance in certificates of indebtedness.

Were it not for the new general charter law which cities were required to adopt January 1, 1922, the situation would not be so acute. In the past, Janesville has figured its bonded debt limit as five percent of the assessed valuation as fixed by the city assessor. The new charter compels the city to accept the figure of the county board of equalization in arriving at its indebtedness limit of five percent. With the valuation considerably less than last year the limit is correspondingly decreased.

It is held that the action, while not illegal now, will become so before the end of the year in that cash on hand in the general fund of the city is considered as an offset to a run-over on the bonded debt. But with the general fund fast being depleted this offset will be reduced to almost nothing.

Again the city would, in case of emergency, have the chance of arguing that the $188,000 assessed value of the city should not be considered as part of the city's indebtedness. This is a matter never decided by the courts, although the attorney general has ruled that a debt is part of the city's obligations.

Rob Milton Home Twice in Day

Milton—Local officers are seeking sneak thieves who entered the home of G. W. Holliday, farmer and meat dealer, twice within 24 hours and carried away clothing and canned goods valued at more than $100.

Some one evidently well acquainted with the family's habits visited the sleeping rooms of Mr. Holliday and his son, Walter, between 4:30 and 6 a. m., taking a suit of clothes, shirts and other wearing apparel. Watches and money were not disturbed.

During the night the cellar was raided, presumably by the same thief or thieves. Twelve cans of cabbage and various cans of miscellaneous fruit are missing.

"BLOOD AND SAND"

LAUNCH MOVE TO GET MEDAL FOR KOSHKONONG HERO

(By Gazette Correspondent.)
Milton Junction—A movement is on foot to have a Carnegie medal awarded to W. R. Williams, Milwaukeean, for his heroic display in rescuing four drowning men a few weeks ago.

Christie Carlin, Pulmyra banker, has advised the Carnegie foundation of Mr. Williams' heroic act, and is confident a medal will be forthcoming.

The four men rescued—Lawrence Johnson, A. S. Bradley, Lincoln, Hawse and Homer Hall—recently presented a gold watch to Mr. Williams as a token of their gratitude.

Clayton Murdock, a fifth member of the boating party, drowned before Mr. Williams could reach him.

EDGERTON AFTER LEAF POOL OFFICE

Citizens Organize to Bring Headquarters to City from Madison.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton—A concerted movement to have the permanent headquarters of the Wisconsin tobacco pool located in Edgerton was made here at a meeting Friday night held at the Edgerton Bros. warehouse, attended by 42 tobacco, business and professional men.

D. G. Ristad, leader of the movement, was elected chairman of the meeting, and Walter Mahabett, secretary. C. A. Koch, former Edgerton man, manager of the pool, said it is for the board of directors, composed of 11 men from the various districts, to select the headquarters.

Sentiment expressed at the meeting was that Edgerton is the logical home for the pool, having the warehouses and the skilled labor necessary in assorting and packing tobacco. The eastern tobacco dealers have considered this city as the center of the tobacco industry for many years, Mr. Ristad said.

A committee of five, composed of Charles Farnum and Joseph Conn, business men; Will McIntosh and N. B. Nelson, tobacco men, and Carl Lien, Edgerton, township, was selected to meet with the pool directors.

JANESVILLE MEN IN MONROE COURT

Clarence and Jack Sampica up Before Judge Grinnin Next Week.

Clarence and Jack Sampica, Janesville, are among those who will be tried before Judge George Grinnin at Monroe next week, when the November term of the Green county circuit court opens Thursday.

The men are charged with violation of the liquor laws growing out of their arrest in Green county early this summer.

Thirty-six cases are scheduled on the criminal calendar. Most notorious of these are the cases against Charles Slinger, Arthur Danie and Mike Juncos, charged with burglary of the Ward and Kneel warehouse at Edgerton last August.

Juncos skipped the country last spring and has not been found. Katherine Burris and Karmelia Wegmiller, charged with unlawful disposition of the dead body of an infant, are to be tried. Miss Burris also is charged with concealing the death of an infant.

Jacob Balsiger is to be tried for subornation of perjury. The rest of the criminal cases are for liquor violation.

Most important of the civil cases is that of former Judge J. M. Becker, suing The Monroe Evening Times.

Husband Seeks Pardon for Wife

Application for the release of his wife, Mrs. Catherine Zuber, who gained notoriety in Rock county when it was alleged she had been sold to Bert Futzel, and who is now serving a three months' sentence on a statutory charge, has been filed by Charles R. Zuber with Governor Dillman.

Gov. Dillman is expected to hear the pardon appeal at the monthly hearing at the executive mansion, Wednesday. Zuber denies the story told by the woman, stating that she is mentally and physically ill and that further action will be taken for her release. He also states that Mrs. Zuber's mother is in ill health and needs the care of her daughter.

Futzel was given six months in jail.

LIGHT VOTE IS ANTICIPATED IN ELECTION TUESDAY

ONLY INTEREST IS IN OUT-COME OF MANY LOCAL CONTESTS.

ASSEMBLY FIGHT

Matheson-Woodworth Race Only One in Rock County—3 Amendments Up.

With the state election expected to be a tame affair with the regular republican candidates assured of election, interest in Wisconsin's election Tuesday in Southern Wisconsin will center in the fights being waged by independent candidates against the regular republican nominees in Rock, Walworth, Jefferson and Green counties. An unusually light vote is anticipated.

Rock county's republican ticket is without opposition from democrats, and the only regularly nominated man having opposition is Alexander E. Matheson, incumbent, for re-election to the assembly without opposition at the primary and whose election is being contested by Dr. Leigh J. Woodworth, Janesville, city sanitary inspector. In the southern assembly district in Rock county, Supervisor Herbert B. Mosely, Beloit township, is unopposed for election to succeed E. G. Field.

Women are interested in the vote which will be polled for Mrs. Jessie Jack Hooper, Oshkosh, independent democrat, opposing the re-election of Senator Robert M. LaFollette.

Three important questions are submitted to the vote by the people at the election. Passage of these would allow jury verdicts by majority, allow sacrifices to succeed themselves and allow municipal corporations to acquire an additional 5 per cent of its assessed valuation provided it is for the purchase of a public utility.

Quiet in Walworth
Election day in Walworth county, famed for being the only county of the 11 to return a majority at the primary against the LaFollette ticket, will be a quiet affair. There is no democratic ticket in the county and the independent democrats are not expected to make a big showing, the election of the regularly nominated men on the republican ticket being fairly predicted. The prohibition ticket is polled a small vote at the primary.

Henry Allen Cooper, present congressman, who defeated L. C. Whitte, Edgerton, for the republican nomination for congress, is expected to carry. Frank E. Lawson, Walworth banker, republican nominee who beat out E. C. Reynolds at the primary, has opposition for election from Democrat, Clarence, independent democrat, Henry H. Tobias is the prohibition candidate for the assembly.

Contests for other offices are as follows: Sheriff, Ralph A. Vetter, republican; county clerk, Grant D. Harrington, republican; and Max L. Duffin and Paul Gavin, independent democrats; county treasurer, Harley C. Norrie, republican; and C. H. Allen, prohibitionist; John C. Brown, independent democrat; clerk of the court, Walter Curran, prohibitionist; and Edward J. Cheney, independent democrat; register of deeds, Frank G. Holmes, republican; Ada B. Crandall, prohibitionist, and Mary Fairchild, Rockwell, independent.

ALUMNI SWARM TO WHITEWATER FETE

Hundreds Back for Homecoming; Mukwonago Trims Preps.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Whitewater—Trains arriving here Friday and Saturday brought hundreds of alumni of Whitewater normal back to attend the annual homecoming celebration, which opened Friday night with a pep meeting addressed by President Frank S. Hyer, the Rev. Allen Adams and V. Kwaph. A big bonfire was lighted and a parade staged in the downtown district.

Mukwonago High Wins
Faculty members received the alumni in the log cabin on campus Saturday morning. Hundreds witnessed the football battle between the normal preps and Mukwonago high, won by the latter, 23-13. The Mukwonago stars were Hunter, Shickler and Chapman. Both Whitewater touchdowns were made in the second quarter by Ben Trewin, one on a spectacular 60 yard run. Tratt kicked one goal after touchdown.

The lineup of the Whitewater team was: P. Trewin, re; Lokes, re; Greer, re; Moriarty, c; Van Gordon, la; Finn, la; Hahn, la; Tratt, qb; Parker, rb; Pollock, lb; Ben Trewin, rb. The Mukwonago team was composed of Keller, re; Chapman, lb; Whitehouse, c; Jacobs, c; Stephens, re; Meyers, re; Freeman, re; Lloyd, qb; Hunter, lb; Sheridan, rb; Tubs, lb; and Trewin, rb in the line.

Preceding the game between Whitewater and Mukwonago normal, which opened at 2:30 p. m., the students, faculty and alumni paraded through the town. The parade was led by the city band and 20 floats of the various student organizations.

The men's gymnasium has been especially decorated for the dance and party on Saturday night. After the game, the men were in the land, which took place on the military aviation field. The men said they had traveled 2,000 miles.

By their continuous flight from San Diego to Indianapolis, in the army airplane, the night of the day, the men were in the land, which took place on the military aviation field. The men said they had traveled 2,000 miles.

The T-2 had overcome the chief obstacle to the transcontinental trip before it was forced down at Fort Benjamin Harrison by a minor defect. The night flying and the passage over the mountain passes and through the canyons of the southwest was the most difficult feature of the attempt.

Observers here who checked the course of the T-2 on the map, estimated the distance traversed at upwards of 2,000 miles, which agreed with the calculation made by the flyers themselves. The previous non-stop record for heavier than air machines is about 1,800 miles. The time required was estimated at a little over 25 hours, and the speed of the plane at an average of more than 75 miles an hour.

NEW DISTANCE RECORD
SEEN BY WASHINGTON
Washington—Although they did not succeed in their attempt to fly across the continent without a landing, Lieutenants MacGregor and Kelly, who were on the T-2, are believed to have set a new distance record by their non-stop flight from San Diego to Indianapolis.

JANESVILLE AND EDGERTON CLASH BEFORE BIG CROWD

TURN-OUT ONE OF BEST EVER SEEN HERE FOR FOOTBALL GAME.

BANDS MAKE HIT

Parade and Mock Football Fray
Features of Greatest Homecoming.

Janesville high school staged its greatest homecoming celebration history, Saturday, with more than 2,000 people crowding around the fair grounds gridiron for the annual Janesville-Edgerton football clash. This year one of the most important high school games in Southern Wisconsin. It was one of the biggest crowds that has ever turned out for a football game in Janesville, augmented by a crowd of 500 from Edgerton.

Several hundred took part in a great homecoming parade to the fair grounds, starting from the high school at 2 o'clock and led by Janesville and Edgerton high school bands, making their first public appearance. The band music, excellent considering the short time the organizations have been practicing, added a new spirit to football in Janesville and whole day took on the aspects of a big community event more than ever before.

Mock Game In Feature
While all interest was centered on the clash, one of the best features of the day was a mock football game staged between halves with 11 men on one side and two on the other. The "Dynamite Rippers," the two-man team, kicked off and ran for a touchdown. Goal was kicked with the aid of a string to pull it between the posts and the two-man team retired victorious.

Full Staff of Officials
Those making up the "Tanglefoot" eleven were: Supt. Frank O. Holt, Oscar Nelson, H. J. Dane, George Stabelford, William O'Connell, Rex Jacobs, Joseph Denning, J. E. Brown, Mrs. S. C. Bostwick, Mrs. Paul Richards, Dr. S. F. Woodworth was head linesman, Frank J. E. Wood as umpire, Elmer Arthur as referee, and J. A. Steiner, a doctor, and J. A. Steiner, stretcher bearer.

Second Teams Clash
A bright sun shone as the second team of both schools met on the field at 1 o'clock for their second scrap of the year, a preliminary to the main mix-up. Janesville's second were favored because of their 17-0 victory three weeks ago. Growds began arriving early and the field was as early as 12:30. The big game was due to start at 2:30.

Freshmen have gathered kindling for a huge bon-fire at the new high school building, which is being burned down. An alumni dance at Apollo hall will follow, from 9 to 12, with Hatz's orchestra playing.

Merchants showed a great spirit in cooperating in homecoming by donating their stores. The field was as early as 12:30. The big game was due to start at 2:30.

Mass Meeting Success
Seldom has school spirit been so high as on Saturday night at the high school. Friday night, attended by 800 pupils and alumni, Roger Cunningham presided and cheerleader John Austin led in some rousing yells. Talks were given by Fred W. Brown, Mrs. S. C. Bostwick, who told of efforts to organize an alumni association, Bernard Palmer, class of '06, Coaches Schute and L. B. Warfield, E. S. Lamoreaux, and Clifford Conry, captain of the 1922 team.

The singing of "Janesville Will Shine" and some rousing cheers closed the meeting. One hundred olive paper roses, sold by girls of the inconspicuous dancing class went and they could have sold 500.

100 Per Cent for S. A. Fund Drive

The Janesville Fence and Post company, the Skid Mill company and the post office for the year reported by Chairman John W. Dady as being 100 per cent for the Salvation Army campaign. An arrangement is to be made whereby the residential districts will be canvassed next week. Members of the Y. W. C. A. tagged visitors to the downtown district Saturday noon. No reports from the rural districts have been received but it is expected an amount close to the quota of $4,550 will be raised.

Invites You to Inspect His New "UNIQUE SHOP"

It's a wonderful place to explore; this new gift shop that he has installed in rooms at the rear of his Jewelry store. There are gift novelties of every description, a particular charm being that there is but small chance for duplication. Mr. Conrad has purchased his stock from manufacturers in all parts of the country with the idea of having each article individual and different. Prices are reasonable—much less than you would expect to pay for goods of a like quality.

TAXING VALUE OF ROCK CO. FARMS

Assessment for 1922 Shows Decrease—Table of Value by Comparison.

Land values in Rock county are as good now as during the peak prosperous years in 1919 and 1920. This fact is brought out in the annual report of the assessor of Rock county, which was filed with the board of supervisors at the county board at the coming meeting.

That the land values of Rock county farms are fairly fixed is brought out by sales records during the last year in the various townships. The speculative feature in the land market is gone.

Fire Loss—Loss in the Joseph P. Holt firm last week is given as $300 in a report given Chief C. J. Murphy. The loss was caused by a fire in the building.

Madison—The Standard Oil company of Indiana late Friday completed its arguments against the Wisconsin department of markets, directing it to discontinue its practice in this state, without attacking the constitutionality of the general marketing statute.

Light Vote in Election Tuesday—(Continued from Page 1) democratic; district attorney, Alfred L. Coffey; republican, Earl Rogers; independent democratic; and coroner, Frank M. Mayer, independent democratic.

Jefferson Has Contests—In Jefferson county where the entire LaFollette slate with the exception of Frederick Bullwinkel, county treasurer, carried the ticket, the democrats have put up a stiff fight.

On the county ticket are for county clerk, William A. Muck, republican; and Gertrude Busch, independent democratic; county treasurer, Fred Bullwinkel, republican; and V. E. Livingston, independent democratic; sheriff, T. F. Dennis Smith, republican; John Glaser, democratic; coroner, L. J. Auerbach, republican; and J. D. Holland, independent democratic.

Several Fights in Green—There are several fights in Green county with most interest centered around the fight between Robert W. Blumer, who won the republican nomination for sheriff in a four cornered fight, and A. D. Brown, who won the independent nomination, and that between Fred K. Hefly, republican nominee and John O'Connor, independent democratic for the assembly.

Former Judge J. M. Becker, defeated for the republican nomination for district attorney, is opposing District Attorney H. N. B. Caradine, present incumbent and republican nominee, at the election, in an endeavor to stage a comeback in Green county.

There is a decided movement on foot to write in the name of William R. Olson, Green county assemblyman, who was defeated for the republican nomination by Fred Hefly, who won the independent nomination, and that between Fred K. Hefly, republican nominee and John O'Connor, independent democratic for the assembly.

John M. Bacon, congressman from the third district, which includes Green county, is opposed for re-election by Miss Martha Riley, independent democratic; Mazie Bowen, county clerk; E. L. Campbell, county treasurer; F. A. Schmitt, coroner; Max G. Booth, clerk of the circuit court; John Burkhardt, register of deeds; and Charles R. Marshall, surveyor, regular republican nominees are unpopular.

HUNDREDS GIVE TO WOUNDED VETS BY BUYING FLOWERS

Little blue cloth forget-me-nots on the button holes of the majority of people on the streets, Saturday, showed they were doing their bit for the "For-Get-Me-Not" day to help the boys lying in hospitals and in their homes because of wounds received in the World War.

Girls stood all along the streets, catching any who did not display a flower. They carried red, white and blue boxes, donated by the Janesville Paper Box company, into which the money was dropped. No special amount was asked.

Boxes were sealed and will be taken on Saturday night to the First National bank, where the money will be counted and placed in an account. H. S. Hargart, president, is on the local committee, headed by Dr. Ralph Woodworth. The money is to be given to the national headquarters of the American Disabled War Veterans at Cincinnati, and will be distributed from there.

Help build hospitals, take care of the sick veterans, and find positions for veterans out of work. It is a way to contribute that will help the disabled man directly.

THE FIRST ASSEMBLY DISTRICT.

Janesville and the voters of the First Assembly district of Rock county are interested in election Tuesday in more than one way. It is important that this district be represented in the next legislature by a man who will be able to hold his own against any and all comers. There perhaps is no more important district in the state than this. It has been represented by men of high character who have achieved more than mere local notice. Lawrence Whitte to recent years was speaker of the assembly and Thomas Nolan was a leader in the years in which he had a seat. In the last session Rock county was the public eye constantly and no man in that body
held the esteem and confidence of the membership to a greater degree than Alexander Matheson.
By ever rule of the game he deserves a re-election. The time to have opposed him was in the primary. He had no opposition then. It was conceded that he was fitted for the place, that he had decently and dignifiedly represented this district, that he had voted honestly and independently and reflected credit on his constituents and brought honor to himself. Not a politician in any sense of the word, he valiantly fought for what he felt was right and just and honest.

It has come about that he is opposed by an Independent candidate. The man who is running against Mr. Matheson is not a candidate from his own volition. He is a candidate of a few men who felt disgruntled over the result of the primary election for state senator. There was no great call for this candidacy. Until he was approached, Mr. Woodworth had no intention of such action.

It is a peculiar circumstance that we find him
arrayed with the men who tried to keep him out of the job he now holds with the city and failing in that, reduced his salary as inspector. Petitions circulated by the friends of Mr. Matheson and friends of City Management and largely signed by women of the city got that salary refused and he enjoys it to this day.

The forces which led opposition to city management are the forces in the leadership opposing Mr. Matheson who was actively for management. They have apparently made a coalition
with a few of the so called Progressive leaders,
another peculiar combination which has behind it a fear that Mr. Matheson might be dangerous to the socialist program. These are things to take into consideration in voting next Tuesday.

But above all of these reasons is the fact that Mr. Matheson is opposed because of his stand on the liquor question. He is an out and out dry.
In his published statements he says he will stand or fall by that issue. It is conceded that the republican candidate for senator was nominated because he was dry. It overshadowed all other issues. It turned a strong anti-La Follette county over to the La Follette progressives. Hence the inconsistency of the few La Follette leaders joining hands with the anti-La Follette, anti-city management leaders in an effort to defeat a man who stands for the one principle that made it possible
for the La Follette ticket to win in the primary in Rock county.

Mr. Matheson is to be punished because he is dry, is recognized as a leader of the forces in favor of enforcement and carrying out the provisions of the 18th amendment. It was advertised that there were millions of dollars available to support wet candidates for the legislative offices.
This assembly district is one of those pivotal important centers which the wets are determined to carry.

It is time the women voters of the county awakened to what is going on. They had much to do with the result of the primary. They cannot do less in the election. Candidate Woodworth says he has no personal preference in the matter of light wines and beers but that the law
should not express "the mere whim of the minority." That is exactly what the brewers and distillers say and all the interests which hope to bring back the gains from the sale of alcoholic liquors.
In this issue one cannot straddle. He is either wet or dry. Mr. Matheson says he is dry, his whole record is dry. Mr. Woodworth explains at length that he is for what the brewers are for
and the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment is for. That makes the issue clear out and unequivocal on this question.

Mr. Matheson voted against the submission of the constitutional amendment adding to city debt limits and opening the way for additional opportunity for taxation. He clearly called attention at the time to the dangers of adding to the tax exempt securities, and placing the burden on the smaller tax payer who could not buy these tax exempt bonds. His voice has been raised against adding these burdens and others
to the people of the state. He has voted consistently against the socialist measures in the assembly. On that record he announces he will stand or fall. And the record is such, his position on the liquor question is such, his whole life in this community is such, that he deserves
the expression of confidence at the polls on Tuesday.

The new bride will be known as "Her Imperial Majesty Kaiserin Wilhelm II." Mendota has several empresses and Napoleons within its walls.

whether a woman has a soul. When all the women have had their say about it he will be better

NEW BLUE SKY BUSINESS

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—The American people are being exploited by the greatest blue sky business in history. In the opinion of government officials who have made a careful study of the vending
of foreign currencies. There is much perniciously as to just how it can be regulated and its most pernicious aspects halted. No federal blue sky law exists and those of many of the states are regarded as loose. Even if there were adequate legislation to govern the sales of securities of doubtful value, there is a question as to whether or not such laws would cover the dealing in currencies.

The case of the German mark is the most notable. Billions of German marks have been purchased by Americans as well as by citizens of other countries, in the hope and expectation that some day they would be repaid by the purchasers on the return of the mark to its gold par value. The trick in the situation is that the mark cannot recover.

The mark is by no means the only case. Others are even more flagrant. The German mark has had more publicity because of the conspicuous position of the German nation in world affairs. Also, the fact that the German reparations are involved has added interest.

What the blue sky operators are doing is selling to Americans, for dollars, notes of European countries which are payable only in those countries and not payable anywhere in gold. Exchange in all these European countries standing declines from week to week and in some of them from day to day. This means a broker
can sell German marks today for a given price
and by tomorrow the buyer will have lost money.
What the buyer fondly hopes is that the tide
will turn and that on some future tomorrow the mark will go up again.

But the sales of currencies are not the sole blue sky business of this sort. Sales of securities of these foreign countries and cities are in much the same class, although, in some cases, there is a shade more hope for them. In such cases, the brokers are even more fastidiously placed. They can sell a Polish bond today for a given sum in dollars. By delaying delivery a day or two, the depreciating currency will enable them to buy the bond at a lower price than that paid them by their client.

The speculation looks highly attractive to uninformed purchasers. To be offered government bonds at small prices seems an easy chance to make money. It would be if the bond were worth even the small price asked. One of the companies specializing in this type of business offers a sort of grab-bag of miscellaneous foreign securities for a lump sum. A dozen bonds, national, municipal and industrial, are offered for a lump sum. The par value of these bonds adds up to the total of $25,000. The lot is offered to the purchaser at $19,500.

Another offer which recently attracted many Americans consisted of some Polish securities.
For a lump sum of approximately $20, a lot of Polish bonds having a par value of about $10,000
was offered. Secretary of Commerce Hoover examined this proposal and discovered that any person could buy these securities in the open market for about $6. The company offering the bonds claimed they were a bargain at $20. It is not improbable that when the company printed
its circulars, the cost of the bonds in the open market would have been as much as $20. The chance of some weeks saw depreciation of Polish currencies.

Doubtless some of the companies offering these securities have some faith in them and, when they prepare their literature, they quote fair prices.
If the literature should be put out at the turn of the tide, when the prices of these evidences of indebtedness started upward, the offerings would indeed be bargains. The trick in the thing is that the chance of a rise in these quotations is remote. To buy these currencies and securities,
therefore, is to bet on a sure loser.

The principal reason the investors must lose
is that it is impossible for them to win unless some thing else comes along and turns everything he touches into gold. He would have to bring a good many eight hour days to touch
enough objects to produce the volume of gold
necessary to bring these currencies and securities back to a point where a majority of the American purchasers would make money on them.
Gold is the backing of bonds and currencies.
American paper dollars are worth $1 each because
the whole world knows there is actual gold back of the currency. European marks, rubles, kron-
en, etc., are not worth their nominal value
because the whole world knows they have practically no gold back of them.

Now the fact that makes it impossible for the investors ever to win is this: These countries have issued paper money and bonds payable in paper money, in such enormous volume that there is not nearly enough gold in the world to make them good. The argument has been made that when Germany, for instance, gets back on her feet, she will get the gold to put back of her marks and they will return to par. There is not enough gold in all the countries of the world
to bring the German mark back to par.

The outstanding volume of Austrian crowns is approximately one trillion. An outside estimate places the world's supply at about $10,000,000,000.
So it will be seen that it would take several times the whole world supply to take care of the Austrian crowns alone. Yet Americans still buy Austrian crowns and Austrian bonds
payable in Austrian crowns. There are 300,000,000 Polish marks outstanding. There are about the same number of German marks, but the German mark production is increasing tremendously. Forty-eight billion marks were issued in the month of August alone, and Germany now is issuing them at the rate of 2,600,000,000 a day.

From these figures it will be seen that these currencies cannot return to par. They might have, had the inflation stopped before these
amounts reached such astronomical proportions.
Now, the worst thing that could happen to the European countries would be to have the mark go back to par.

Estimate that a pair of shoes is worth $10.
Now they would cost 40,000 German marks.
Germany buys the $10 shoes and agrees to pay 40,000 marks. A magic wand is waved and the mark returns to par. Germany has agreed to pay 40,000 marks for the shoes, whether the mark is at par or not. Therefore, she must pay the equivalent of $8,000 for a pair of shoes. Extend this calculation to the great debts which have been incurred in terms of German marks,
Polish marks, Russian rubles, Austrian crowns and the others. It will be seen that to have these currencies approximate at par would mean that these countries would have to repay thousands of times what they borrowed.

In order to show he was a statesman, Benito
Mussolini ordered a new suit and a plug hat.

No matter what happens at the fair grounds
today, Edgerton and Janesville will have to remain in the same county.

Why wouldn't it be a good idea to send the ex-
Sultan to Doorn?

Germany seems to be gaining the notion that she lost the war. We have some Wisconsin statemen who do not agree with her.

Princess Hernaline says other women are jealous of her because she is to marry Bill Hohenzollern. Boy, call Archie-Cullen. He has a place

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

EVER A BABY.
Above the careless clamor and the cry.
The stride for comfort and the nod of peace,
Ambition and the urge to scramble high,
Most of us hold a little baby's face.

Here is a father dream than fame or gold.
A richer treasure than the stuff we seek.
What wondrous secrets pierce the cradle hold.
What joyous words those little lips shall speak.

Servants of Mammon! Such we seem to be,
Scolded the tasks which face us every day.
Yet ever smiling at us, we can see
The babe that soon shall follow down the way.

Here is the purpose of the wrongs we bear.
Here is the urge which sends us after gain.
Gives us the courage to stand up to care.
And sets our teeth to bitterness and pain.

Seemingly seeking gold we spend our days.
Seemingly selfish, mad the pace we make.
Yet most of us are pledged to noble ways.
Not for ourselves but for a baby's sake.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

CHILLY.
A frost in the Adirondacks?
A blizzard in the air?
Some candidate for congress
Must be campaigning there.

The days may be warm and pleasant
And life runs on like a song—
A candidate shows in the office
And everything goes dead wrong.

Ads. for a calm contentment.
The awakening is tough.
Some squawking politician
Has got to do his stuff.

Ah, well, for the sailor man,
Far off on a Chinese junk.
Who smokes his pipe in peace
And listens to no such bunk.

They chatter and rant and rave
And storm in the same old way,
But when the storm is spent
Who knows what they've had to say?

CONFESSIONS OF A CYNIC.

I am not one who believes the one-piece bathing suit should be abolished. I think the young ladies should wear something else.

I hope they don't build the movie theaters
any larger. I can hardly see the pictures now from where I can afford to sit.

I don't believe a husband is always to blame.
I don't think he is guilty more than 35 per cent of the time.

If I believe more families have been disrupted
by family pianos than by any other agency.
I have no objection to women smoking cigarettes. I believe that is all cigarettes are good for.

I have stayed in the city all summer and it has been the pleasantest summer I have spent in twenty years. Most of the babes and pests have been away.

I have learned from experience that it is seldom worth while to open any letter with an insignificant front.

Who's Who Today

MARQUIS CURZON OF KEDLESTON.
Marquis Curzon of Kedleston is said to be by far the most distinguished member of the new government in England so far as a varied and important diplomatic and ministerial career is concerned.

Curzon is 63 years old. He was long under the tutelage of Lord Salisbury, as private secretary, from 1885 to 1891, and under secretary for India for two years, and under secretary for foreign affairs for three years more. Then he was sent to India as viceroy to carry out the Cecil policies, and remained there until 1905, when he gave way to a liberal. The war and the coalition offered him a chance, and on retirement of Mr. Balfour from the foreign office, he took office.

Curzon is married to two American women. His first wife was Miss Leiter and his second, still living, was Miss Hiss, daughter of J. Monroe Hiss, former American minister to Brazil.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

TRIMMING AN INGROWN NAIL.

Almost as deeply ingrown as the "knit" on the ninth day—or is it the twenty-first—anyway it is one big day that never was—the popular idea that an ingrown toe nail should be trimmed straight across without regard for the position of the nail
is the other way—anyway it is some day that doesn't matter.

There is a way to trim or cut out
an ingrown toe nail, and it is generally given painlessly, rapidly and satisfactorily. Briefly it is as follows: A local anesthetic is injected into the tissues near the edge of the nail and the root of the nail.
The surgeon then removes a wedge of the nail which includes the edge of the nail and the soft tissues next to
it. He takes a good deep section
out while he is at it, so that the clean edges will approximate easily. That is all there is of it.

The soft tissue at the edge of the nail,
being constantly pressed and squeezed against the edge, become irritated and inflamed, and if the abnormal or freak shoes are not discarded the inflammation is followed by granulation ("proud flesh") in the groove, and this granulation tissue
hangs up over the nail, and hides
the appearance of "ingrown" nail.
If a toe nail took upon itself a tendency to grow in there would be little to do for it. But the soft tissue
may be drawn away from the nail
edge by skillfully applied strips of adhesive plaster, changed night and morning. The groove may be powdered with burnt alum to discourage the granulation. Of course, the granulation tissue having the straight inside heel and the lines must be worn, if any shoes may be worn while the nail edge is sore.

Q. What animal makes the most noise when belching? D. M.
A. The national zoological park
says there is no authentic information as to which animal makes the most noise, but that the following animals are generally considered to be among the loudest noise producers:
Lion, bull, elk, sea lion, wolf, and elephant.

Q. Was Dr. Lincoln's "Abraham Lincoln" produced in the United States before it was played in England? E. A. P.
A. The play "Abraham Lincoln" was written by an Englishman and played in England before it was brought to this country.

Q. Do many Americans take the new English channel by ship?
A. It is estimated that about 70 per cent of the passengers carried across by airplane last summer were Americans. An average of 100 passengers fly to Paris daily from London.
London is also connected with Brussels and Amsterdam by air lines.

Q. Is it true that two thin garments are warmer than one thick
one?
A. Government experts say that two thin garments are warmer because the layer of air between them
is a poor conductor of heat.

Q. Are castor beans poisonous?
B. L.
A. Castor beans contain a poisonous principle, and though harmless
when handled, they may cause serious
if not fatal effects when eaten.
Especially in the case of small children.

Q. How may rust stains on porcelain be removed? A. M. E.
A. These stains may be rubbed off with lemon juice, provided they are not too long standing. For what remains a smooth wash of tissue paper
with a few drops of dilute oxalic acid
or hydrochloric acid (both poisons)
and wipe the stain; then when it is dissolved wash the porcelain with soapy water.

Q. What is a panopticon as applied to prisons? L. W. K.
A. A panopticon is a circular prison
in which the cells and their occupants
are constantly visible to guards stationed in a central tower. Such a prison was proposed in 1787 by Bentham. The new penitentiary in Illinois embodies this idea. The interior wall of each cell is made of glass.

Q. Are turkeys, especially? S. L.
A. The department of agriculture says that very little has been done in this direction. When it has been tried the capons were found to be much quieter than the toms. For the reason they might be easier to fatten

for market.

Q. Have leaves a starch content?
D. H.
A. Leaves are often found to contain starch, especially at the end of a long period of bright illumination.
They seldom contain starch in the morning or on cloudy days.

Q. Please give a recipe for push pie. M. E. W.
A. Soak equal quantities of dried apples and dried peaches until plum-
bly tender and chop slightly.
To two cups of the apple-peach mixture add three-fourths cup thin
cream, one tablespoon of cornstarch
and one-half tablespoon of lemon extract. Fill pie tin lined with plain paste, and bake without a top crust.
Serve with whipped cream.

Is Your Child
Physically Fit?
It is not its first duty to you out what is the matter with him.
Do you know how to proceed to
his end?
We offer you the best information in the world in a specially prepared booklet on THE SCHOOL
CHILD'S PHYSICAL FITNESS.

It tells you how to test his eyes,
his hearing—how to overcome flat feet, to regulate his appetite, how to forestall tuberculosis, what to do when he gets contagious diseases.

Stop right now. Take stock of your child's condition. Use this booklet as a guide. It is FREE. A copy will be mailed to any reader
who fills out and mails the coupon below. Enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Write your name and address clearly.

Deer Hunting

Will Start Nov. 13

Nine more days and the deer hunting season will open. The day is Nov. 13. One buck to a hunter is the limit, and that buck must not be less than 24 years old. The season closes
Nov. 22.

The state commission will take special measures to enforce the law this year. Thirteen extra deputy wardens have been appointed to do this duty, most of them from southern Wisconsin.

Hunters are warned they are not permitted to tote a rifle in deer country for five days previous to the opening of the season.

the treatment of boils.
Sincerely,
Please give me some information about "Sarcema" (Dr. J. C. Smith).
Answer.—Sarcema is one of the malignant types of cancer, occurring
in persons of any age, cause unknown.
It is a progressive tendency to spread through the blood to distant parts of the body, but curable if early diagnosed and radically treated.

Retard Stomach.
I am a girl of 17 and I find it too torture to eat. Is it too late to cure this? Of course.
Answer.—No. Join a gymnasium
class and go in particularly for exercises with the rope, turn rings and ropes. Swimming is a fine exercise for you. Every hour when the clock strikes, with the rope, turn rings and ropes. Stand with your feet apart and turn thumbs down, under and back without loosening fingers. This forward draws should be done and back.
Hold the posture a minute. You should avoid excesses of any substance for meats, sweets, etc. You need a series of exercises to do at home night
and morning to overcome the fault.

The well known Mr. Golliver had no Baggage Insurance.
When he woke a captive in Liliputia his baggage was gone, all
he got back were his eyeglasses.
In these days of express trains
and ocean greyhounds we journey farther in a day than he did
in a month, and from one cause
and another, we lose our baggage more frequently, usually getting back not so much as an eyeglass.

acted upon the nerves. The effect may not be apparent at that time or perhaps for year. But, unless your resistance is excellent, due to the normal condition of your spine, otherwise disease will in time appear. The progressive course which this disease follows over a long period of time is called "momentum." Before the Chiropractic adjustment can accomplish results this momentum must be overcome; given time the Chiropractor does overcome this handicap and results are noticeable, increasing with the number of adjustments taken.

"RIP" CALLS CLERK AFTER LONG SLEEP

The telephone rang in the office of County Clerk Edward W. Lee.

It was from the office of H. W. Adams, Beloit attorney.

"Hello—I want to speak to Frank P. Starr, county clerk," said the voice over the wire.

"Why hello, Rip Van Winkle—when did you wake up," casually remarked the clerk. Starr was county clerk 18 years ago.

They also tell one on Alexander Ely, county surveyor. It happened that Ely was out on a farm doing engineering work. He spied a raccoon in a tree. Near the tree was a plump rooster atop a fence post. Ely figured that the raccoon was after the rooster. He stood still awaiting developments. The developments did not materialize. So he moved nearer and stood still some more. Still no developments. The coon did not move.

Closer inspection showed that some farmer had put a stuffed raccoon up a tree to give disappointed hunters something to shoot at besides his livestock.

Do You Want Your Pocket Picked?

Well, that's exactly what will happen to you unless you watch your step when you go to the polls on November 7.

You are going to be asked to amend the State Constitution so as to permit any municipality to double its indebtedness, to acquire or build street railway properties, to buy properties for the production, transmission, delivery, or furnishing of light, heat, water or power to the public.

This means that 276 million dollars worth of property on which taxes are now being paid will become tax-exempt. Who will pay the taxes to the State and to the Government on that 276 million dollars? You will, Mr. Voter. You will fill up that money hole if you are sucker enough to vote "Yes" on this Amendment.

Get mad about being called a "sucker." Get mad enough to vote "No" on the most vicious piece of legislation that has been proposed since "Grape-juice" Bill Bryan pulled his unsafe, unsound, ridiculous 16 to 1 stuff.

If this Amendment passes it gives the politicians a free rein to buy a lot of broken-down utilities at fabulous prices, with your money.

The next step in the program is that the bonds now outstanding on these properties, and that would be issued by the municipalities to finance operations, would be tax-exempt.

You know that public-built utilities are built and developed at fancy prices that a private institution would never dream of paying. How do they get away with it? By the people casting their votes without thinking. By the voters authorizing a lot of tricky, shrewd, grafting politicians to make expenditures such as are proposed under the Amendment on the Pink Ballot.

Do you know just what tax-exempt means? It means a perfectly legal way for the millionaires to invest their money to avoid paying taxes.

But you, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Salaried - man, Mr. Cottage-owner, Mr. Laborer, you pay the taxes that they escape.

True, the bankers and the bond men will make a lot of money out of selling the new crop of tax-free securities, but there isn't any real good reason why you should line their pockets while yours are being picked.

Don't let anybody fool you into thinking that your increased taxes will be offset by a reduction in the cost of light, heat, power, water, or transportation. You recall how the railroads were operated by-guess and by-god during the war. You remember that ships which cost a couple of hundred thousand dollars each were sold by the Emergency Fleet Corporation for as low as $600.00 apiece.

The Freezing Danger

Put In Anti-Freeze Early And Avoid Worry And Pain Regrets

EVERY EXPERIENCED MOTORIST knows full well—some of them through sad experience—that the late autumn and early winter is the time when most radiators are burst and water jackets cracked, by freezing, and to such it is only necessary to say that the well known precautions should be taken in time and not carelessly neglected until damage has occurred, but each year there is a "new crop" of motorists, who haven't "been through the mill" and this article is especially intended for them. Just as water pipes in an unheated house will freeze and burst, in winter, with an attendant large plumber's bill, so the radiator, water-jackets and pump will do the same and involve a large bill at the garage if a car is left for long in air at a freezing temperature. There is one difference between the car radiator and the domestic water pipe, viz.: The former is, by its construction, the most easily frozen water container that man has ever devised and is as much more susceptible to frost than the latter as are the delicate salvia plants on the lawn compared with the hardy turnip tops in the back garden. A very short exposure of a water filled radiator to a temperature below 32° F. will result in some ice formation within it and whether leaks result therefrom will depend somewhat on the construction of the radiator, but it is the only safe way, never to permit freezing to take place. Much greater exposure to cold is required to freeze a cylinder block, but the results may be very serious, when this does occur. The only two ways to forestall damage to the radiator of a car, that is exposed to freezing temperatures are these: To draw off every bit of water from the entire cooling system or to fill the cooling system with a liquid which will not freeze at the lowest temperature to which it can possibly be subjected. The best anti-freeze liquid known, seems to be a mixture of denatured alcohol 30% and water 70% by volume, when protection down to about 0° F. is desired. In other words, either fill up with alcohol mixture well before dangerously cold weather comes or else drain the system each time the car is left idle, where a freezing temperature may prevail. The former is the only safe practice and saves worry and regrettable accidents. Don't put too much faith in the "heated" garage, for they may be slow in starting the heating apparatus or in radiator coverings, which protect for a short time only.

CHOKER STAYS CLOSED

V. M. asks: What do you think causes the following trouble, which developed suddenly in connection with my car? When I start the engine, it will not pick up speed, but acts as if the choker stayed closed and shut off the air. After half a minute or less, the engine picks up of itself, all of a sudden. Answer: We believe that your choker control is at fault and that while it acts positively to close the battery valve, it does not open it promptly when you move the choker button to "open" or "lean". Probably after the engine has got running, the vibration is sufficient to help the choker control to assume its correct position and, when this occurs, the engine begins to run normally. You better examine the action of the choker.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

STARTER FAILS TO ACT PROMPTLY

V. M. asks: What is the reason that, occasionally, when I step on the starter button, there is some hesitation, upon the part of the starter, to crank the engine? The battery is O. K.

Answer: This may be due to one or more of the following causes: A loose connection at the battery. A loose connection at the starter switch or at the starter motor; to dirty or weak contacts in the starter switch or to weak brush tension, badly worn brushes or a dry commutator in the motor itself.

So eloquent has its emblem become that prospective owners are convinced that all they need to know about the car is that it is a Cadillac.

The Inner Story of Life of Michael Collins

DRAMATIC RECITAL OF THE ADVENTURES OF IRISH LEADER

(Copyright 1922, By The World-Wide News Service, Inc., New York, N. Y.)

BY ONE OF HIS BODYGUARDS

Humble Beginnings

Perhaps I ought not to have begun my story of the life of Michael Collins with the account of his trip to London, but as I go on I shall have to tell of scores of exploits like that, some more daring, some more amusing, and many more dangerous, than the beginning of his life, and how he came to be the leader who, if he had lived, would have made Ireland a free, prosperous and happy country, which she may never be now, any more in the future than in the unhappy past.

Anyone who ever heard of Michael Collins knew that he was born in County Cork, the son of a little farmer, who married when he was more than 60 years of age, taking a wife 15 years younger than himself. Michael's father was 75 years of age when Michael was born, one of a big family of eight. Only an Irish lad, born to the soil as Michael was, and as I was myself, knows the sort of talk a boy heard in Ireland 25 years ago.

The parents looked at their boys and girls growing up, and went on tears to think that there was nothing for them in their own country, and that they would have to go away to America or some such place; and bitter was always the talk of their going.

But when Michael and I were boys, the world was not enough to be earning for ourselves, there came the new word, Ireland had been refused Home Rule, and the word went round that the young Irish must not leave their country in disgust. He must stay in or near Ireland, to fight for Irish freedom when the right time came.

There was no living for us in Ireland, but we would live in England. Michael passed a Civil service examination, and earned a junior clerkship in the post office. He did not leave Ireland behind him when he went to London; he brought Ireland with him, like a score of other lads I know, of whom I was one.

Life in London

Michael went to London in 1905, and left the post office in 1910, to better paid work. He was employed in the city of London in a stockbroker's office for a time, and had other employment as well. He did not care much what he did, since he looked to the future to Ireland, and to Ireland alone.

In 1914, not long before the war, he had the chance to go to America, which seems to come to every young Irishman at one time or another, and he took it. He was to go to the position of a London clerk to be a ruler of men and the organizer of methods which obtained for Ireland as much freedom as South Africa.

It was only a year, and he was to go to the position of a London clerk to be a ruler of men and the organizer of methods which obtained for Ireland as much freedom as South Africa.

When he really happened in Ireland after the war broke out few Englishmen were allowed to know. It is not my intention to refer to it any more than is necessary, in order to show how Michael Collins stepped from the position of a London clerk to be a ruler of men and the organizer of methods which obtained for Ireland as much freedom as South Africa.

Of the 17, six fell in the Easter rising in Dublin in the year 1916, and the rest, to a man, suffered imprisonment, which extended to the end of that year. I was with Michael in Stafford Gaol, and was with him in the prison at Dublin in the year 1916, and the rest, to a man, suffered imprisonment, which extended to the end of that year. I was with Michael in Stafford Gaol, and was with him in the prison at Dublin in the year 1916, and the rest, to a man, suffered imprisonment, which extended to the end of that year.

As soon as he drew a free breath, the Big Fellow set himself to organizing of the movement which held up the British Empire for years. Was there ever before such a creation as our Intelligence Department, which Michael Collins first devised, and then employed with a skill and audacity never equaled in the history of rebellion? Who were the intelligence officers he employed? Why every boy and girl that went to school or played in the streets or about the village, etc.

I could tell much of the Intelligence system Michael devised, and others perfected; but the best way to give an idea of its workings is by the history of a most incident in which the information we have obtained was turned to use by the Big Fellow himself.

The affair to which I refer took place in his own county Cork, at the time when the hue and cry after Michael was at its hottest. A body of auxiliaries, in three armored cars, was in hot pursuit of the young Michael, with four others, seemed to be fleeing, with the net spread by his enemies drawing closer with every hour of the pursuit.

It was the dusk of a stormy winter day when the armored car was forced to turn off a main road, where progress was barred by a strong fence of the enemy, on to a steep side road, which swiftly descended to a stream, cutting almost due west toward the sea.

The little fleet of pursuing cars, encouraged by the actual sight of their quarry, drove on at the most rapid speed, and presently all three fell headlong into the trap toward which they had been manoeuvred for the better part of the afternoon.

There was nothing more than a deep and very wide ditch, dug fairly across the road at a place where it was shut between two high and broad stone walls. Across the ditch a bridge of planks, supported by two strong beams, had been laid for the passage of the car in which Collins rode.

As soon as that was well acrossed the ditch, the supporting beams were drawn away, and the three heavy cars went tottering over one another, throwing the men in all directions. One or two were injured, but the bulk of them, for the moment, received no more than a severe shaking.

The White Horse

It was in county Cork, too, that Michael got the white horse that he rode to put heart into our own men, and the fear of eternal punishment into those that would have cast him in chains. It was a white horse, you'll remember, that Brian Borrohm rode when he won the great battle at Clontarf, and scattered the enemies like chaff before the wind. Many another of the Irish kings of old, when he became great, rode the white horse to show his mastery over his foes.

The white horse was used by the oppressors of Ireland no less than by the great Irish of the past, as a symbol of conquest and triumph. My grandfather used to say that Cromwell himself had to ride the white horse to terrify the Irish; and it is sure that William of Orange was so mounted in Ireland's darkest hour.

It was a bit of a farmer and horse breeder that blundered the white horse to the Big Fellow.

"Ride it to victory, Michael Collins," he said. "This bred the same way as the famous white horse that carried Sida the Goat, and 'tis a good horse he has, Michael. A big, rumpous beast he was, with a flowing mane and a long tail that swept the ground."

And by-and-by some of those who wanted Michael Collins, and those who wanted the white horse, began to think so much of the big white horse that they forgot that other men might be able to ride him besides Michael Collins.

But Michael did not forget, and the day came when the white horse of the Cork farmer, bred like the horse ridden by Skin the Goat, helped Michael out of the worst hole I ever knew him to be in through the year when he was hunted from pillar to post by hundreds of pursuers.

I've told you what kind of man Michael Collins was, and of the eyes in his head that danced and flashed with just the amusement of being alive. His eyes twinkled when he was in danger, because there was always the fun of getting out of it. His eyes twinkled at a joke, even if it was just a little joke, because a small joke is better than no joke at all. His eyes twinkled at a bad bit of news, because, he used to say, it might be so much worse.

And when the price was put on the head of Michael Collins, the police circulated a description of him, with a photograph. When we came to see the paper we had to laugh, even while we were angry at blood-money being offered for Michael Collins. For they had the photographs of both men, the one with a smiling face and laughing eyes and the other with a hard look that seemed to mean mischief for somebody.

Looking at the two photos, which might have been of the same man, but were not, the police chose the one that was more like Michael Collins. They could not bring themselves to believe, I suppose, that a merry face, with laughing eyes and a white horse, was so important for them to catch.

While everybody looked for a stern, hard man, Michael only smiled and winked his eyes, until you'd have thought that he was laughing about Ireland by 20,000 R. I. Cs and Auxiliaries, or more, was the grandest joke that ever happened to mortal man.

A Daring Exploit

Well, as I say, the police were on the look-out for a hard-looking customer, who might be riding a white horse. At this time there was a man at Dublin Castle whom Michael went to see about some bad work that had been done at a court-martial. He wrote a letter to this man, warning him that he was coming, and might soon be expected, but Dublin Castle seemed to take this for an empty boast.

And walked to the spot where the dead he again paused and, slowly inserting the hand holding the bowl of the pipe into the medicine bag, drew it out with a bowl filled with tobacco. Now, lifting the medicine bag, he shook it gently over the bowl of the pipe, and almost instantly the tobacco within began to smoke, as if it had been lighted by a match.

For a moment White Cloud stood, holding the smoking pipe in his outstretched hand, and then, with a high above his head, and lifting his eyes skyward, suddenly called out: "A half-dozen Indian words, in a loud, shrill voice. The ceremony of the pipe, which was the most sacred of the pipe, placed its stem in his mouth and drew in a mouthful of smoke. Then he bent over the body of one of the dead Indians and blew the smoke slowly over the face of the other dead Indian.

White Cloud now straightened up and, striding into the middle of the circle of warriors, handed the pipe in silence to Leaping Deer, who received it in silence, slowly drew in three puffs of smoke, and then passed the pipe to the warrior sitting at his right. This warrior, in turn, took three puffs of the smoke and handed it to the Indian sitting at his right.

Thus, in a few minutes, the pipe was slowly passed around the circle of warriors; and not until the last warrior had taken his last puff and the pipe had been returned to White Cloud, was the ceremony broken.

The moment the pipe was back in the hand of White Cloud his whole demeanor changed. His eyes kindled. His form dilated. He took a couple of quick steps, and he stood by the side of the bodies of the dead warriors; and then, raising both hands in a commanding gesture, he began to speak, at first slowly and deliberately, but soon increasing in volume, until he swept along by the whirlwind of his thoughts, until the words poured from him in an angry torrent of wrathful denunciations.

Mrs. Clay and Gideon and Ruth could not understand a word that he said; but there was no need that they should understand in order for them to comprehend the import of what he was saying. His face, his actions, his angry gestures, his whole bearing, showed that he was denouncing the whites and calling upon the warriors to avenge the death of their comrades. He pointed to the wounds in the bodies of the dead warriors, he extolled their bravery and patriotism; and then, suddenly turning, he drew a couple of quick steps in the direction of the prisoners, and, extending a denunciatory hand in their direction, spoke with such an angry vehemence, such intense anger, and such a look of scorn, that the prisoners half their right hands gripping the handles of their tomahawks, their eyes fixed on the white face, like the sun, of the warrior, and the excitement of their muscles tensed, like the muscles of hounds in sight of their prey, yet held back by the leash.

A word would set all that raging humanity upon the prisoners that was coming and stood upon her feet to receive it. Ruth clung tightly to her mother. Gideon swung swiftly to his mother's side, and, with the excitement of the moment, no hand was raised to stay him.

"Mother," and he laid a hand upon her trembling shoulder, "they will not harm you and Ruth and the baby. Show no fear and keep quiet; what ever happens to me, keep quiet. I will draw their attention to me. Tell dad that I did my best—Mother, good-by," and suddenly throwing his arms around her neck, he pressed a quick kiss on her face, whirled swiftly about and sprang, with astonishing quickness and force, upon the nearest guard, his tomahawk pipe nearest guard, and leaped off, like a wild deer frightened by the bound of a panther.

The heroic boy had determined to give his life in an effort to save the lives of his mother and sisters, realizing that, if he gave the Indians sufficient cause, they would vent all their fury on him. He had no hope of escaping. He only hoped to so anger the savages that all the force and wrath that he saw was about to burst forth would break and spend itself on him.

For the brief fraction of a second all the Indians stood as if paralyzed by the sudden unexpectedness, the wild daring of the act of Gideon, then all their pent-up fury burst bounds and men, women and children were after him, like a pack of hungry wolves after a wounded deer.

So far as Michael Collins was concerned it was otherwise, and one time afternoon a man on a tall, roge up with flowing mane and tail, rode up to the castle and informed the sentry that his business was with a certain Mr. X. The sentry hardly knew what to do, for he had heard of the letter and he had heard of the white horse, and moreover, he had seen a picture of a little bit like him. So he sent for his officer, as in duty bound, and the man who arrived on the horse was allowed to enter under guard.

The ruins of the horse were swung up on a picket, and the sentry resumed his walking to and fro, looking an eye every now and then at the white horse. The horse, they tell me, returned the compliment by not paying a scrap of attention to the sentry. Then presently some one came out of the castle in a hurry, and before the sentry realized the position he jumped on the back of the horse and galloped away.

Two seconds later there was a rush of officers and men out of the gate, crying "Stop that man! Where's that big, broad-shouldered man who just went out?" and the sentry had to admit that he'd got away, and he'd ever had a closer the white horse of Michael Collins himself.

"You fool!" they cried. "The man who escaped was Michael Collins. 'Til swear was not the sentry, was it? 'Til swear 'twas not the man who came here just now riding the horse?"

"Oh, him," they said; "no, he's not Michael Collins. Michael Collins was in Mr. X's room at his busi-ness when that fellow rode up. Why did he ride up? Merely to provide Michael Collins with a means of escape when his business in the castle was done?"

Well, that story got out in Dublin the same night, where many had seen the big, broad-shouldered man galloping away on a white horse, and there was a big laugh you could have heard for miles around, and he'd tickled the soldiers and the police.

(Another fine installment of the amazing life story of Michael Collins appears in Week-End Edition of the Gazette next Saturday.)

New Enterprises Do Not Come Into a City Where Local Firms are Having Poor Success

If you were selecting a city in which to open up a new business, what would you consider? The very first thing which would make a good or bad impression upon your mind would be the success with which the firms already in that city were meeting. If that city had business houses struggling along on a "hand-to-mouth" basis, you would not give it a second thought. On the other hand, if the city has thriving, bustling, busy, concerns, you will give it long and studied consideration. But remember, that the success of business houses is determined by the support they receive from the public. This is true of Janesville manufacturers. If Janesville people will not support Janesville enterprises, how can Janesville ever expect to get new ones?

Introducing Electric Simonizing A NEW ART

ELECTRIC SIMONIZING gives your car a hard brilliant polish that will not check in the sun nor will the rain spot it.

HERE'S HOW IT IS DONE—First we wash the car absolutely clean. Then a cleaner is rubbed on which lays a hard foundation. The Electric Simonizer is then put on leaving a hard shiny finish that will not collect dust and dirt.

We give the entire car two complete buffings with the electric buffer and one buffing by hand. Four buffings are given the hood and rear of the car because they get the most grief.

We simonize your car inside and out and guarantee the job to last at least three months.

REMEMBER THIS SIMONIZING SYSTEM ABSOLUTELY PRESERVES THE FINISH ON YOUR CAR. It keeps the finish on your new car from spotting.

THE BUSINESS OF FARMING—DAIRY—FARM BUREAU—LIVE STOCK

ROCK JUSTLY PROUD OF "JR." VICTORIES

Boys and Girls of Today Must Adopt Better Farming Methods.

The farm youths of today must be better farmers in the "tomorrow" of agriculture.

Junior club work is pointing toward this result. Rock county has reason to be proud of the success achieved by her junior clubs this year. However, the 1922 success promises to be but a start as compared to the 1923 program.

Farm leaders are planning the program at a conference in the court house Saturday afternoon.

Junior Successes
The high spots of the junior club work were at the fair and at the recent livestock exposition in Madison.

The two Clark girls—Edith and Alice—stood out in the showing game from start to finish. Edith, younger of the two, stands out as the biggest winner of honors in the Holstein contest. Then in Milwaukee she hit the high spots with the junior calf, Snowgirl Oak Lodge. In the open competition she placed second, with only a Rock county calf ahead of her. The next day was first in the junior clubs.

Then she went to the national dairy show at St. Paul, where she ranked fourth, the three leading calves being seniors and Miss Clark's junior. At Madison she ranked first in the Holstein contest and looked good to win the grand championship. She didn't, losing out to John Hill, having a splendid forest. Day after day was far behind, placing in every contest except at St. Paul. Next year Alice vows she is going to beat Edith—but then she has said that for two years.

What in the Clinch? Archie Tompkins, Evansville, achieved junior fame when he won three championship contests at the Madison show on a litter of Poland-Chinas. Not only that, but the Tompkins boys showed they were comers. They all placed in the baby beef contest with baby beef calves, and then placed in the dairy contest with Holstein calves. They ran in on the money three ways. The three sons of F. H. Arnold scored high with Shorthorns. But Iowa county had the prize baby beaver, fitted to the minute and carrying the right amount of fat. Stock must be fat and smooth for baby beef contests. The Rock county entries in these contests showed exceedingly well, all getting in the awards.

Rock county hopes to have more than 200 boys and girls in club work in 1923 under a new system whereby there will be more group work for the juniors. Rock county boys and girls can win if given a fair show, so the breed associations and leading farmers, teachers and all are planning that the juniors be given a good start. "Rock county first in club work."

County Wide T. B. Testing as Protection to the Public

1—Rock County has long considered the building of a costly tuberculosis sanatorium. Why not first remove the cause of the disease—infected dairy products. One-third of the human tuberculosis among children is directly the result of consuming milk infected with T. B. germs. A large percentage of cases among adults are from the same origin.

2—By testing your herd and protecting your own family, you are protecting the public,—those in the city whom farmers supply. Tested herds increase public confidence and increase the demand for clean dairy products that always sell at a premium.

3—County breed associations can do no greater promotion work than pushing the county wide testing program. It means a greater reputation for their breed within the county, more sales, more satisfaction and more confidence. With the dairy breeder it means increased markets for his products and with the beef breeder a greater demand for clean meats. Swine from a clean county goes to the butcher block as fully inspected meat and not to the grease tanks.

4—Time and money is being spent to increase dairy markets. First comes full protection to the buying public and that protection is only obtained by having all herds within the county, or within the zone supplying the district, tested under the state and federal plan. It is good business. It is health protection.

Think it over and be ready to sign the county wide petition.

Week End Gazette Page of High Spots in News Told in Pictures

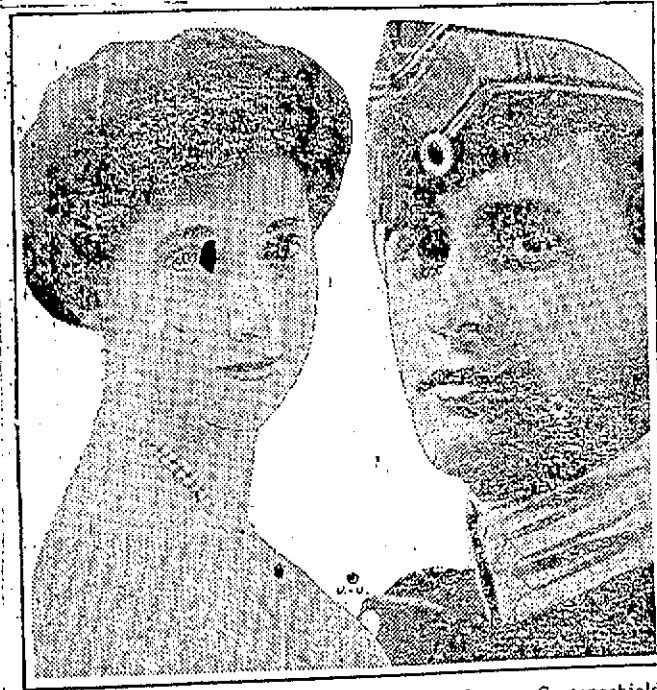

Representatives of vets signing peace resolutions. Charles Bertrand, president of the interallied vets' organization, and Alvin Owsley, commander of American Legion, are at the right center and left center, respectively, of the table.

Representatives of the 9,000-000 veterans of the world war have departed for their native lands from the convention of the F. I. D. A. C., interallied veterans' organization, at New Orleans, pledged to lead their bodies in the work of opposing the overthrow of governments and in bringing about the destruction of implements of war. Alvin Owsley, newly elected commander of the American Legion, signed the resolution for that body.

This interesting photo of the wives of two of the U. S. cabinet members and of the British ambassador to the U. S. was taken while the three were attending the annual convention of the Garden Club of America at Washington. They are Mrs. Hughes, wife of the secretary of state; Lady Geddes, wife of Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to U. S.; and Mrs. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture.

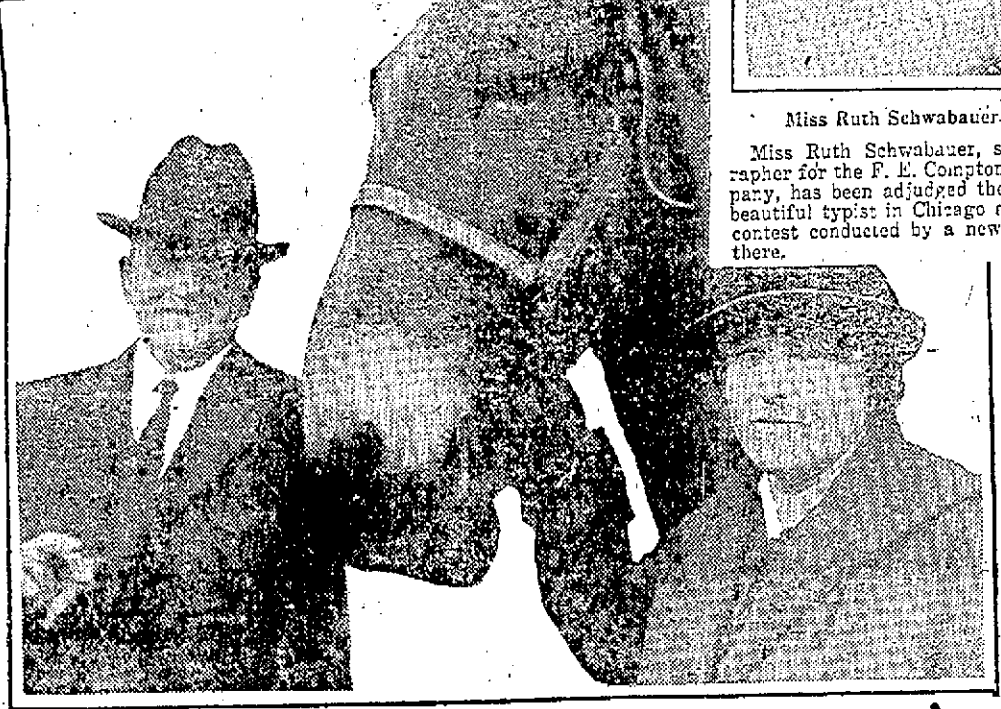

Princess Dagmar and her soldier husband, Jorgen Castenschild.

A romance talked for years by the usual matrimonial restrictions of royalty culminated recently in the marriage of Princess Dagmar, youngest sister of King Christian X. of Denmark, and Jorgen Castenschild, an ordinary and untitled reserve lieutenant of the Royal Danish body guard. The groom, though untitled has been found to be "of noble birth" because his grandfather was for years Chief Chamberlain at the Danish Court. His marriage to the Princess, however, gives him many Danish relatives. He will be a cousin of King George of England, a brother-in-law of King Christian of Denmark and King Haakon of Norway, and a relative of King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden. The bride is 32 and the bridegroom 38.

Mrs. H. A. Guild.

Mrs. H. A. Guild, known nationally as a club woman and civic worker, is a candidate for congress from Arizona. She is the Republican's nominee and had the honor thrust upon her as she did not seek the nomination. No petition was circulated by her name having been written in the primary ballot.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, her mule "Jenny" and Detective Totten.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, who lives "down the road apiece" from the spot where the murdered bodies of Rev. Edward W. Hall of New Brunswick, N. J., and his choir leader, Mrs. James Mills, were found, is now the important figure in the investigation which so far has failed to result in an arrest outside of that of the boy, Clifford Hayes, who was freed. Mrs. Gibson only recently told her story to the authorities, saying she hadn't bothered about the case because "they got what they deserved." She is rated as virtually an eyewitness. She says she had ridden on her mule to the locality of the murder to investigate robbery of her corn and chickens, heard the shot fired and heard Mrs. Mills cry a man's name. When detectives asked her to go to the scene of the crime she went—on her mule.

Marchioness Curzon.

The rumor from London that King George shortly will raise the Marchioness Curzon of Kedleston to a dukedom is interesting to Americans, due to the fact that the Marchioness Curzon, who would become a duchess, is an American woman. She is the daughter of the late J. Monroe Hinds of Alabama, at one time American minister to Brazil.

Three short months ago Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parr were married and went to live in the cozy love nest they had arranged in a fashionable Chicago apartment. Life seemed just one grand sweet song for Mrs. Parr. Then, she told Chicago police the other day, she came upon some letters to her husband from Margaret "Peggy" Mohr. After reading the torrid phrases in the letter she decided to "end it all" and drank poison. She has recovered from the poison but her beauty is ruined—scarred and seared by the poison. Miss Mohr denies that she was responsible for Mrs. Parr's act.

Miss Ruth Schwabauer.

Miss Ruth Schwabauer, stenographer for the F. E. Conpton Company, has been adjudged the most beautiful typist in Chicago after a contest conducted by a newspaper there.

Two interesting photos of Miss Ailsa Mellon and portrait of her fiancé, Mr. J. Parker Gilbert.

The engagement of Miss Ailsa Mellon, daughter of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the U. S. treasury, to J. Parker Gilbert, assistant secretary of the treasury, has been announced. Mellon is rated as one of the world's richest men. He has been rated as richer than John D.

Mac Asbill, Jr.

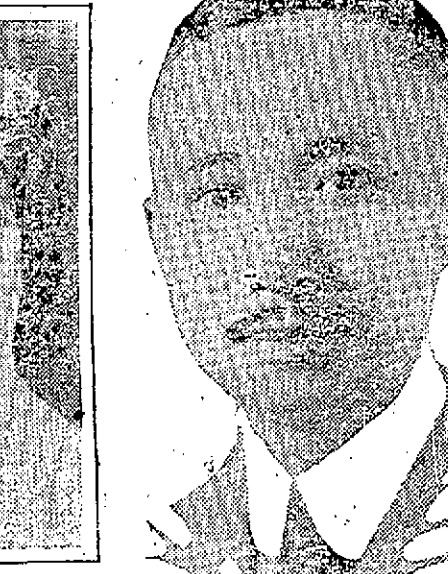

Dr. J. H. Buff, Atlanta specialist, performed a modern miracle when he closed a safety pin in the stomach of infant Asbill, six months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Asbill, and then removed the pin which the child had swallowed.

Mrs. Ruth O'Brien.

"I don't love him and he knows it," was the emphatic declaration of Mrs. Ruth O'Brien of Dorchester, Mass., when asked if a reconciliation with her husband might come as a result of his attempt at suicide after she started divorce proceedings. Her husband, Clifford, is recovering from a dose of poison.

Stanley Baldwin, British board of trade president.

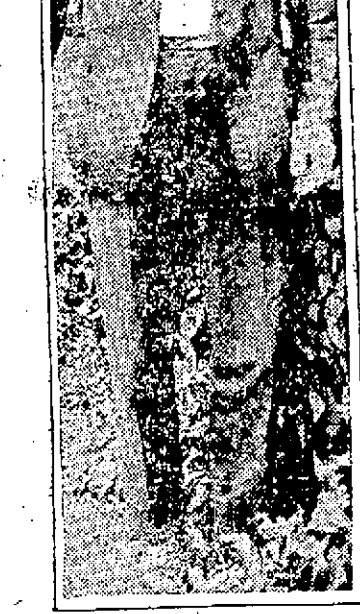

Mrs. Ima Winchell Stacy.

Mrs. Ima Winchell Stacy of New York city is a specialist in the field of training saleswomen. She is called the co-ordinator of the retail selling department of the New York university, her job being to look after the students who take places behind the counter in the various department stores. She has induced many college girls to enter department stores where she believe there is a big field for them.

John A. Corry.

John A. Corry, English inventor, recently walked from Leeds to London to claim his rights as inventor of the war tanks so extensively used during the latter part of the war.

Ex-Governor James P. Goodrich.

From the snow fields of Russia to perpetual summer in Miami, Florida, is a big jump, yet James P. Goodrich, former governor of Indiana and a member of the United States Russian commission, recently made it. A few weeks ago Governor Goodrich was traveling over Russian snow fields on dog sleds. He is here seen in the midst of tropical splendors of Miami as one of the first of the winter visitors.

Prince Umberto.

Prince Umberto, eighteen, heir to the Italian throne, is making his first tour of Europe's capitals; accompanied by his royal parents. He is reported engaged to the sixteen-year-old Belgian Princess Marie.

Mrs. Ferid Bey.

Mrs. Ferid Bey, wife of the minister of the interior in the Angora cabinet, is very popular in European society circles. Her husband took a leading part in the recent Mudania conference.

Dr. C. J. Owens, head of U. S. international trade commission.

The American international trade commission has sailed for Europe on the Homeric to boost American export trade abroad. The pilgrims are headed by C. J. Owens, president of the Southern Commercial Congress.
